

Willy Wonka's factory description

Entrance

The double doors lead into a hexagon entrance, which go downstairs into the room leading up to the lobby entrance. Hats, coats, etc. are hung on golden hand-shaped coat hangers.

Tunnels

There are many tunnels underground leading somewhere in the factory. There is a tunnel leading to the Chocolate Room. It is here that guests will notice that all the rooms in the factory are kept at a very comfortable temperature, and there is constantly a sweet scent in the air.

Chocolate Room

Wonka's favourite room, and the most important in the factory. The room is a grassy meadow full of flowers and trees, with a chocolate river mixed by waterfall that pipes into all the other rooms in the factory. Everything in the meadow is edible, and a boat ride down the chocolate river allows transit to other rooms in the factory via a dark tunnel.

Chocolate River

The river leads directly between the Chocolate Room and edible marshmallow pillows and the fudge room.

Inventing Room

It is here that Wonka experiments with new candies. All new creations must be tested in the Testing Room next door.

Testing Room

In this room, brave Oompa-Loompas must test the experimental products fresh from the Inventing Room. There is a trial-and-error of testing the new inventions, so Oompa-Loompas tasked with testing don't always emerge looking like how they did before.

Lick-able Wallpaper Room

Where wallpaper with fruits (oranges, pineapples, plums, bananas, strawberries, snozzberries, ect.) stands. Licking one of the wallpapers with a specific fruit's picture on it will taste like the fruit on the wallpaper.

Fizzy-Lifting Drink Room

A red-and-grey machine in the middle makes Fizzy-Lifting Drinks, which allows the drinker to float. A fan at the top of the grey/silver ceiling cools the drinks. To stop the fizzy lifting drink you burp

Nut Room

A room where trained squirrels work shelling walnuts. As squirrels are adept at getting the nut out of the shell in one piece, they are used instead of Oompa-Loompas. "Bad" nuts are thrown into a rubbish chute.

Wonkamobile track

The Wonkamobile (a car with carbonation as petrol) runs here.

Spotty Powder room

A room that produces Spotty Powder, which allows eaters to feign illness to get off from work or school.

Wonkavision studio

In this entirely white room, one of Wonka's most ambitious experiments is refined. Like how televisions are able to broadcast images, Wonkavision is able to broadcast chocolate. Oversized chocolate bars are photographed by a special camera, transmitting them to an ordinary television set where they can be pulled out of the screen at normal size.

Wonkas Office

Everything here (including copies of the contract) are halved.

Wonkavator

The factory's elevator system consists of a cubicle, made from glass, which can quickly transport visitors to any room in the factory. One button, labelled "Up and Out", causes the elevator to smash out of the factory's ceiling and lets it fly through the air by sugar power.